Domestic traffic grew at the Culiacán, Mazatlán, and Durango airports by 14.4%, 11.0%, and 5.1%, respectively. In the case of Culiacán, the performance of VivaAerobus and Interjet were noteworthy. Volaris and Grupo Mexicana drove growth in Mazatlán, and general aviation was the driver in Durango. These factors were offset by the suspension of Aviaca (suspended since July 6, 2009) and the reduction in traffic on Interjet and Magnicharter. The Monterrey, Acapulco, Ciudad Juárez, and Tampico airports had the largest traffic reductions.

International traffic recorded growth at the Zihuatanejo, Zacatecas and Durango airports, principally. WestJet in Zihuatanejo, Volaris in Zacatecas, and Aeroméxico Connect in Durango were the airlines that most contributed to growth. The opening of the Zacatecas-Los Angeles route by Volaris on November 24 was noteworthy. The Monterrey, Acapulco, Mazatlán, and Tampico airports had the largest traffic reductions. The first three were principally affected by the suspension of Aviaca and the reduction in passengers carried by Grupo Aeroméxico and Grupo Mexicana. The Tampico airport was affected by the departure of American Eagle.

For the first time in 2009, the total number of flight operations (takeoffs and landings) in the month increased as compared to the prior year period, rising 0.8%.
