Domestic traffic grew at seven airports. Traffic at the Culiacán, Mazatlán, Chihuahua, and Zacatecas airports benefitted principally from growth on the Mexico City, Monterrey, and Guadalajara routes. Durango benefitted from an increase in passengers carried by Grupo Aeroméxico and also general aviation traffic. Ciudad Juárez benefitted from the opening of VivaAerobus's route to Guadalajara on March 1st. Finally, Reynosa was boosted by traffic on the Veracruz route.

Domestic traffic decreased at the other six airports, principally as a result of decreases in traffic on the Mexico City routes.

International traffic was unchanged as compared to the prior year period. Ten airports recorded growth, led by Monterrey, Mazatlán, and Durango. Monterrey benefitted principally from increases on the routes to Dallas and New York; Mazatlán from the routes to Phoenix and Denver; and Zacatecas airport on its route to Los Angeles.

Zihuatanejo and Acapulco were affected by decreases in charter traffic; in addition Acapulco saw a reduction in passengers on the routes to Houston and Minneapolis.

The total number of flight operations (takeoffs and landings) in the month increased 6.2% as compared to the prior year period.
